LOCAL UM STUDENTS WIN SCHOOL OF BUSINESS SCHOLARSHIPS, AWARDS MISSOULA --

Several Missoula area residents are among students at the University of Montana who won awards and scholarships at the annual School of Business awards banquet on May 22.

Michell M. Zeltinger, a graduate of Sentinel High School and a UM senior in management and human resource management, was awarded the Roy C. Fleming Scholarship of $350. Zeltinger hopes to work in human resource development after graduation.

Denise Tripp, a graduate of Loyola Sacred Heart High School and a junior in business management at UM, was awarded a Champion International Corporation scholarship of $500. Tripp will pursue a career in retail management after graduation.

Theodore S. Nelson, a graduate of Big Sky High School and now a junior in financial management at UM, won a Robert D. O'Neill Memorial Scholarship of $250. A member of the Army ROTC, he also holds an ROTC two-year reserve scholarship. Nelson plans to become a stockbroker after graduation.

Lois Schyler, who will graduate this year in business administration, won the Wall Street Journal Student Achievement Award. The award consists of an engraved paperweight and a subscription to the Wall Street Journal, and is given in recognition of outstanding scholastic achievement. Schyler plans to join the Peace Corps and attend graduate school in the future.

Geri Huges, who will graduate from UM in 1988 in business administration, was awarded a $700 junior scholarship by the Montana Society of Certified Public Accountants. Huges plans a career in public accounting upon graduation.

Debbie Lovrien, a graduate of Hellgate High School and now a senior in business management and finance at UM, was awarded the Donna Karkanen Memorial Scholarship of $250, presented each year by the Zonta Club of Missoula. Lovrien plans a career in retailing after graduation.

Michael Jeffrey Berglund, a graduate of Big Sky High School and a UM junior in accounting, was awarded the Peat, Marwick, Main and Company Scholarship of $750. Berglund plans a career in public accounting after graduation.

Caroll Patricia Rambo, a resident of Alberton, was awarded a $500 scholarship from Galusha, Higgins & Galusha. Rambo, who was named the outstanding member of Beta Alpha Psi during the 1986-87 academic year, plans to enter public accounting after graduation.

Other scholarship winners from Missoula include: Raylene K. Saur, $750 from Montana Power Co.; Koleen M. Kozeluh, $250 from Zonta Club; Eugene C. Hufford, $500 from the Montana Bankers Association 25 Year Club; and Scott O. Kenops, $500 from the Robert D. O'Neill Memorial.
